A great night at the Backyard Brewery

We had a big turnout on January 17th at the Backyard Brewery for our NETWORKING IN THE NEW YEAR event!

Members of both locals participated in a fun “ice breaker” where they searched out someone that they didn’t know from the other local to strike up a conversation, and many new connections were made that evening. It’s always so wonderful to have our two locals together in January.

Our NAHB field representative Isabelle Shocket stopped in to meet and greet members. We had lots of positive feedback from the event, thank you for your comments. We want to make your networking events fun and productive!!

We would like to thank our FLIGHT SPONSOR –James Degan of Andersen Window and Doors for his generosity and support of our local association!

The New OSHA Regs, “Silica” and Your Business

Is your company in compliance??

Most parts of the new OSHA regulation for silica went into effect on October 23, 2017—is your company in compliance? The new standard for exposure to respirable crystalline silica includes requirements for employee training, written programs and exposure control plans, a competent person to supervise compliance, and significant changes to work practices for many common construction tasks. This new rule affects practically every company involved in construction.

Come learn what your company should, and should not be doing, in order to be in compliance with the new rule.

Dr. Brian Stevens has an extensive background in biology and chemistry, and has spent the last six years at Contractors Risk Management (CRM) assisting companies in protecting their employees’ health and ensuring compliance with OSHA regulations covering construction and general industry. CRM is the premier health and safety consulting firm for construction in New England. They assist clients in six major areas:

- 1) project inspections
- 2) program development
- 3) training
- 4) OSHA representation
- 5) industrial hygiene
- 6) DOT compliance
